Demographic trends

- Low birth rate – In 2018, the total fertility rate increased up to 1.71 children per woman, which is slightly above the EU average (1.6).

- Ageing – Currently there is 2 million of elderly aged 65+ (18 %). According to the population projection, the amount of people 65+ will increase up to 2.4 million in 2030 and 3 million in 2050, which is almost one third of the overall population.

- Change of a family structure – There is a rapid increase of children born outside marriage (9% in 1990 and 48.5% in 2018). Since 2002, the divorce rate stabilized at 45-50%. Divorces of families with children create 58% of all divorces. There is also an increase in single-parent families, where approximately 400 thousand of children are raised and women lead 90% of these households.

- Poverty among families – Higher risk of poverty is prevalent in families with three and more children, single-parent families, unemployed and low qualified. 30 % single-parent families are at risk of poverty compared to 8.5% of families with two adults and one child and 5.8% families with two adults and two children.
Trends in the employment of women

- Negative impact of parenthood and low employment rate of women - The difference between the employment rate of women without and with children until the age of 6 is one of the highest in EU (31%). Childbirth has a large impact on labour market participation of women, with consequences for later careers and also for pensions.

- Low uptake of flexible work arrangements – In 2017 only 11% of working women in the 20-64 age group worked part-time (EU average 31%). Job sharing is used only in 7% of Czech companies.

- Insufficient pre-school childcare services – The participation rate in formal childcare for children under age 3 (4.7%) is below the EU average (33%). Participation of children aged 3 until the age for start of compulsory school attendance remains slightly under the EU average (81% vs. 86% in EU).

- Gender inequalities in remuneration – Women are more likely to hold a tertiary degree as 60% of graduates in 2017 were women. CZ has the second highest gender pay gap (GPG) in EU - 21.1% in 2018 (adjusted GPG in 2016 was 11%). ETUC research shows that women in German and Czechia will wait until 2121 for equal pay.
